

Vorpals BLAST-E.R.

In common with other muzzle brakes, the high volume gas porting achieved by the Vorpals Solo can make life pretty unpleasant for your neighbour on the range.

Some ranges even ban use of muzzle brakes for this reason.

With the Vorpals System there is no need to remove your muzzle brake under such circumstances - simply spin on the Vorpals BLAST-E.R blast effect reducer.

Fitting quickly and easily to the robust accessory thread of the Vorpals Solo, the BLAST-E.R. contains the vented gas momentarily and releases it forward.

There is a slight reduction in brake effect but a marked reduction in blast.

From a military sniping perspective, the BLAST-E.R. eliminates the need to damp down dusty ground or lay out matting in situations when muzzle blast could reveal the firer's position.

Note: Despite its appearance the BLAST-E.R. is not designed as a moderator and no authority is required to possess it.
